Review the written dispute

1. Investigate the specific facts. Review the records relevant to the reported item and the error described on page 1. For rental charges, review the applicable lease terms, dates, calculations, payments, deposits and credits, including mitigation and reletting adjustments where applicable. A list of posted charges alone does not resolve a dispute about their basis or the missing adjustments.

2. Preserve the substance of this dispute. Consider the enclosed information and send all relevant dispute information to the reporting company under 15 U.S.C. §1681i(a)(2) and (4). Any selected reason or summary should accurately convey the actual objection. Please identify the reason or classification transmitted.

3. Correct or delete as appropriate. Correct inaccurate or incomplete reporting. Delete or modify information that cannot be verified under §1681i(a)(5)(A). If no accurate balance can be verified, I/we request deletion of the collection item.

4. Give each signer the written result. Send the results and revised consumer report for each signer's file under §1681i(a)(6). If the item remains, explain how the specific disputed facts were resolved and identify the records relied on; provide copies if available. For any completed reinvestigation identified below, please also provide the procedure description, including the contacted furnisher's business name, address and telephone number if reasonably available, under §1681i(a)(6)(B)(iii) and (7).

Earlier requests / completed result, if any

I/we prefer written correspondence. Referral to the reporting company or its collection portal does not answer the specific issues stated here. If information is missing, please identify it so it can be supplied in writing. If you maintain that a call or portal submission is required, please explain the basis in writing.
